Re: K.G. v. Santa Fe Public School District
1:12-cv-1209 KBM/LFG

Dear Counsel:

I am writing to address your letter dated January 17, 2014.

First, I am in the process of following up on your document inquiries regarding work order forms, attachments to emails, and the response from Ted Newton referenced in the email from Ms. Sena. We will supplement according to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Second, as we previously agreed upon, the District IT Department did a search for all emails that referenced KG's full name and initials KAG or KG for the date ranges of August 2009 to December 2012. The search also included her SFPS ID number and her State ID number. All emails that resulted from this search were produced except for those emails that are listed as withheld on the privilege log and in the discovery responses.

Third, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(b)(5) requires that a party which withholds information on the grounds that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial-preparation material must identify, in some detail, which information is privileged and describe it in a way that allows the opposing party to ascertain the applicability of the privilege.

The Tenth Circuit held in United States v. Johnston, 146 F.3d 785, 794 (10th Cir. 1998) that "[i]n order to be covered by the attorney-client privilege, a communication between a lawyer and client must relate to legal advice or strategy sought by the client." All of the emails that were withheld and listed as attorney-client communications on the privilege log fall within this category. Attached is an amended privilege log clarifying that for your records.

I do not find any requirement in the rule or in applicable case law that requires detailed and specific information about the withheld emails such as dates (the date range was agreed upon as August 2009 to December 2012), names of lawyers, meetings, correspondence, and witnesses.

Sincerely,

KEYA KOUL

However, the Court declines to direct that the Board produce information from sensitive school records relating to other children. The issue in this case is whether Defendants violated Plaintiff's rights, not whether Defendants may have violated the rights of others. This is not a class action lawsuit, and Rule 26 specifically limits discovery to the parties' claims and defenses. As information to other accidents does not relate to the claims and defenses in this case, the proposed discovery should be limited by the proportionality principle of Rule 26(b)(2)(C).
